

REPORTER

Courier is on the hunt for a talented and motivated London-based reporter to help drive our editorial coverage on the world of modern business. You'll report on fascinating companies around the world – digging into how they work and why they matter – with authority, authenticity and attitude. Courier's global coverage spans sectors, so you'll be equally interested in cracking open the supply chain of a Chinese streetwear brand as you are curious about the profitability of a new French banking app.

The successful candidate will work on stories for Courier's various editorial products – from our bimonthly print magazine and monthly newspapers to our weekly email newsletters, podcasts and more.

What you'll do:

- Research and report on fascinating brands, people and trends, producing exceptional stories to be featured across Courier's print and digital products
- Write with a high degree of confidence, insight, clarity and depth
- Cultivate close relationships with companies, subject experts and PRs
- Be Courier's eyes and ears at industry events, always on the hunt for a good story
- Establish yourself as a generalist in the world of modern business – and a specialist on a few specific beats
- Work closely with the senior editors to help steer Courier's overall editorial agenda

What you'll bring:

- A strong understanding of, and experience reporting on, small businesses, startups and consumer brands is highly preferred
- A crystal clear idea of what constitutes a great Courier story
- A self-starting personality and an eagerness to roll up your sleeves to develop sources and stories
- Deep curiosity for uncovering the beating heart of a story
- A healthy dose of skepticism and the ability to distinguish reality from hype
- Excellent written English and spoken communication skills
- Adaptability, a sense of humour, and the ability to thrive in a fast-growing media company

To apply:

Send your CV along with a letter explaining why you're the right person for the role – and any other materials you think support your case – to jobs@couriermedia.co. Please include the words 'Reporter' in the subject line. This role is based in London.
